Hiring is one of my client's biggest challenges right now, and my guess is that if they are struggling with it, you might be too. Charter Perks, the bundled suite of services offered by many telecom carriers, has become a frequent consideration for small business owners seeking to streamline communications and reduce overhead. While the promise of "all-in-one" can simplify budgeting, the reality hinges on how the package aligns with a company's specific operational needs, cash flow, and growth plans. At first glance, the allure of a single monthly invoice covering internet, phone, and sometimes cloud backup is compelling. For businesses that lack in-house IT staff, the bundled model reduces the administrative burden of juggling multiple contracts and support tickets. Moreover, carriers often market these packages with introductory discounts that appear to lower the cost of essential services. Budget-friendly cash flow: A
